A classic medieval murder mystery

Middle Ground Theatre Company proudly presents the World Première Stage Adaptation of Ellis Peters' famous medieval sleuth CADFAEL: The Virgin In The Ice. It is winter 1139 and raging civil war has sent many refugees fleeing north from Worcester, among them an orphaned boy, his beautiful 17 year old sister, and a young nun. But they seem to have disappeared somewhere in the wild winter landscape of frost and snow – and Brother Cadfael embarks on a dangerous quest to find them... The search will lead him to discover a chilling and terrible murder, and a tale of passion gone astray. Ellis Peters' Cadfael novels have sold millions of copies globally, and this World Stage Première celebrates the centenary of her birth. Veteran actor Gareth Thomas, twice BAFTA nominated in a career which spans 50 years and includes the title role in the cult classic sci-fi series Blake's 7, leads a quality cast of fifteen, including Richard Walsh (London's Burning), James Palmer (River City) and Rupert Baker (London's Burning). Featuring film projections, lavish settings and bespoke music, this stunning new production is produced by Middle Ground Theatre Company, who this year mark 25 years of bringing quality drama to the stage.

TRIBUTE: Donna Betteridge with the five benches dedicated to the Barn Mead fire victims

Taking shape: a memorial to the innocents

Fire victims' names will live on in school playground

A MOVING memorial dedicated to the Harlow mum and her five children killed in an arson attack last year is now being installed in the playground of the primary school where three of the young victims were

Dr Sabah Usmani (44), sons Sohaib (11), Muneeb (9) and Rayyan (6) and daughters Hira (12) and Maheen (3) all died after the fire which police believe was started deliberately tore through their end-of-terrace home in Barn Mead last October.

But their names will live on thanks to the fundraising efforts of husband and wife Neil and Donna Betteridge, of Abbotsweld, who have worked tirelessly to raise an astonishing £15,000 to pay for a lasting tribute to the family at Abbotsweld School.

Work to install five memorial benches each inscribed with the name of one of the young victims - and a canopy representing their mother is now under way, while a £12,000 'jungle gym' donated by Hampshire-based play equipment firm Fawns has already been erected in the playground.

Neil told the Star he and Donna had been "overwhelmed" by the public's response to their appeal.

Builder jailed for knifing dog owner

A MAN who knifed a woman on a Harlow street during a row over her dog has been jailed for four years. Chelmsford Crown Court was told that builder Barry Ansell, who has a string of previous offences for violence, slashed the woman's hand with a knife after she went to the aid of her pet.

Ansell (36), from Thetford in Norfolk, was said to have trodden on the dog in the build-up to the Stabbing, which happened in The Stow on October 22 last year. He was caught by police two days later hiding in his loft.

Ansell, who pleaded guilty to wounding the dog owner, was living at an undisclosed address in Harlow at the time of the attack.

His actions were filmed by a CCTV camera, footage from which was shown in court.

Recorder Ian Evans said Ansell had caused his victim - who cannot be named for legal reasons - serious

"You had trodden on her dog and during an argument between you and her you had possession of a knife which you had picked up from the floor," the judge said.

He added that Ansell had a number of previous convictions for

Carjack accused held in custody

FOUR men arrested after an alleged carjacking in Harlow have been sent for trial at Chelmsford Crown Court.

The incident happened in Priory Avenue on April 7 when a woman claimed to have been dragged from her vehicle by a gang of men who stole her mobile phone before driving off in the vehicle.

Craig Lynn (25), Terry Fryatt (25), Alfie Wiseman (19) and Jamie Hunt (20) - whose addresses were given as the Oasis Hotel in Hart Road have been remanded in custody by Chelmsford Magistrates to reappear at court on June 17 for a plea and case management hearing.

Lynn and Hunt have been charged with burglary and robbery, while Fryatt and Wiseman have been charged with burglary.

A fifth man - aged 36 - was arrested for burglary and granted police bail until June 27.

READERSLETTERS

SIR, Cllr Mike Garnett should be given the George Orwell award for Soviet-style propaganda (Letters, April 18). The mean and squalid 'bedroom tax' is presented as a means to provide people with homes. Already in Harlow if you have the misfortune to lose a relation, the policy is to force you to downsize because you are under-occupying. Practically as soon as your relation is buried you have a stream of letters demanding this.

So this execrable policy is already in place - against any idea of human decency.

Cllr Garnett talks about the "usual mix of lies and smears". This from a councillor whose colleagues completely invented the 'bedroom subsidy' to make it look as though council tenants were receiving something extra which was being or leaves home you are not asked to downsize and the private landlord would not ask you to do so.

The other fantasy is that Harlow is awash with one-bedroom flats for people who are being forced to downsize. The ones that do exist are squalid and poky, but the council still expects people to dump furniture, books, the piano and a lifetime of memories to suit their administrative memories to suit their administrative

The attempt to mislead also includes the one statistic which can be verified -88,000 council houses were being built in 1980 when Mrs Thatcher had been in office for six months, all started under a Labour government and as many as possible stopped by Mrs Thatcher. Those who had money could buy their

The blatant dishonesty of the Tory position is underpinned by their breathtaking arrogance. People are not human beings, they are just units to be pushed around because they have no wealth and, therefore, no power. Our councillors should be better prepared

SIR, As someone who has never voted Conservative in my life, it gives me no pleasure to point out the Harlow Council administration's political malaise.

As chairman of Sumners & Katherines Residents' Association I and my associates have come into contact with Cllr Mark Wilkinson and Cllr with Cllr Mark Wilkinson and Cllr Tony Durcan . And after having read the letter from Cllr Dennis Palmer (Star, April 11) I can only come to the conclusion that all three are ill advised, ill prepared and ill informed. It gives me no pleasure to say that Cllr Wilkinson turned up to our meeting ill prepared to discuss details surrounding the proposed West

Sumners development, while Cllr Durcan's utterances and missives were at the very least ill advised. Last but not least there were Cllr Palmer's utterances stating that the proposed Latton Priory development would ease local housing needs. He should really research his subject prior to putting his thoughts in print.

The proposed two developments -

West Sumners and Latton Priory - are to be built on Epping land on the borders of Harlow. Harlow will receive nothing from these developments; waiting lists will go to those from Epping, council tax will go to Epping etc while Harlow will get more pressure on already overstretched infrastructure, doctors, dentists, roads and schools.

To remedy this malaise, I would suggest local councillors become better informed, better prepared and better

If this is Mrs Thatcher's legacy you can keep it

SIR, It is always interesting to read comments when the writer states "the author clearly wasn't old enough...[to understand Thatcher]". Well I was old enough. And if being one of the official three million people trying to find work in 1981 or living with negative equity on a policy of selling council homes or relying on the Americans to supply our assault on the Falklands is the Thatcher legacy, then you can keep it. Unfortunately we never learn and the current government is just continuing, and enhancing her failed policies. Will it change? Not unless the Labour Party decides to become a real opposition. Compare Mrs Thatcher's record to that of Clement Attlee and there is no contest. Victory in railway fence campaign

AN animal lover has won an important victory in her two-year battle to get new safety fencing erected along a dangerous railside pathway running through Harlow Town Park.

Kim Herbert (53), of Altham Grove, lost her beloved hearing dog Cassie in 2009 after the animal ran onto the line while the pair were walking in Maymeads Marsh.

The distraught dog owner then launched a campaign and online petition calling on Network Rail to improve safety by fencing off the stretch of track running between Harlow Town Station and the Templefields industrial estate.

Network Rail refused to erect

A HARLOW mum will face up to her fear of heights when she takes on the Rotary Club of Harlow Tye's water tower abseil in aid of Cancer Research UK next weekend.

A BABY boy who died at the age of 19 months from a rare genetic condition is the inspiration behind a fundraising zumbathon being staged at Great Parndon Community Centre.

James Dowers, whose family lived in Harlow for more than 40 years, died last September of mitochondrial disease - a genetic disorder which compromises normal cell and organ function.

After his death his distraught parents - Chris (25) and Emma (27) - set up the Baby James Starlight Trust in his memory - and the charity is now set to receive a big fundraising boost thanks to Harlow zumba instructors

Les forced off road insurance row

A PENSIONER whose car was damaged when the roof of his Harlow Council-owned garage collapsed has blasted the authority for refusing to foot the bill for repairs.

Les Coben (84), of Rectory Wood, could now be forced to declare his vehicle off the road because he cannot afford his inflated insurance premium, which has more than doubled since the council refused to accept liability for the damages. He claims he warned the council the roof was leaking and needed replacing weeks before it collapsed, but this week the authority insisted it never received a formal complaint. "Because they won't accept it was their fault my insurance company has had to cover the £700 cost of repairs, meaning my renewal premium has rocketed," he told the Star.

"I simply can't afford to pay it, so it's left me with little choice but to declare my vehicle off the road."

Mr Coben, who is chair of trustees at Harlow Welfare Rights &

stees at Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice, said he reported the leak to Contact Harlow weeks before the collapse, which happened over the May bank holiday weekend last year.

"After I telephoned Contact Harlow, they sent out a guy from Kier Harlow to assess the problem," he said. "He took one look at the roof and told me it would need replacing and said he would put me on the list for repairs. repairs. "That was before Easter, a Ambulance chief plans 'complete transformation'

A STRATEGY to "completely transform" the region's ambulance service has been launched following criticism over its response times.

The East of England Ambulance Service NHS Trust is to recruit more staff, curb levels of staff sickness and overhaul its management structure as part of the turnaround plan.

In a frank introduction to the document, EEAST interim chief executive Andrew Morgan admits: "We are letting both patients and staff down. This is not acceptable and we need to completely transform the organisation to better support our patients and

The report highlights poor morale with a lack of leadership and high levels of absence through sickness. "There are too many managers and not enough management," it adds. It also highlights a lack of resources, including over-reliance on rapid response cars instead of ambulances. MARTIN FORD

However, in line with a recent health watchdog inspection, it points out that the service offers good clinical care and is financially

Mr Morgan added: "We need to improve the service we give to patients and better support our dedicated and committed staff.

"In addition to recruiting more people and putting more vehicles on the road earlier this year, we have developed short and medium term actions and, coupled with our organisational development strategy to better empower staff, these will help to start to transform the service.

"Transforming the organisation will take time but we have the staff and the focus to turn things around together."

The plan includes recruiting 82 specialist paramedics, 149 paramedics, 24 emergency medical technicians and 96 emergency care assistants. The service will aim to achieve a one per cent decrease in frontline sickness every month.

Measures are also introduced to devolve management and develop clear career pathways for frontline staff.
The Government is keeping a close eye on the progress made by the service on the orders of health minister Lord Howe, who stepped in after ambulance chiefs were summoned to Westminster by local MPs concerned about missed targets for response times.

Last month, the Care Quality Commission found improvments were required in standards of care, treatment and

"We were hoping to raise a few thousand to help pay for some kind of memorial, but we never expected the response we ultimately got.

"We're just happy that something positive has come out of so much sadness."

The children's father, sole blaze survivor Dr Abdul Shakoor, has been invited to attend the official unveiling of the memorial, which is expected to be complete by mid-May.

"I'll be speaking to Dr Shakoor this week and we hope he will be able to attend what will undoubtedly be a moving ceremony," added.

"No-one can possibly imagine what he has had to go through. I I hope this memorial and the story behind it will show him that the whole community is behind him at this most tragic time.

Neil said the couple would now turn their attention towards raising more money in the hope a separate tribute can be installed at the neighbouring infants school where six-year-old Rayyan was a pupil.

"Another bench is already going into the playground at the infants school but we're hoping to add to any money left over from our main appeal so we can pay for another memorial," he explained.

"We want to create something lasting so that these children and their mother will never be forgotten.

Even when their friends have moved on, the next crop of children joining will be able to enjoy the play equipment and find out why it was installed in the first place."

Neil and Donna are now searching for volunteers to assist with the installation of the memorial.

Last chance to bag a share of £15k cashpot

the £15,000 Cash for the Community Awards on offer to voluntary groups in Harlow - but you will have to be Monday (April 29) is the deadline for nominations in the inaugural awards scheme run by Harlow-based funeral director Daniel Robinson & Sons.

To celebrate its 120th anniversary, the funeral firm - in association with the Star and our sister paper the Observer – is running the Cash for the Community Awards to shine the spotlight on those who give up their time to

A fortnight ago it announced that £5,000 had been added to the original £10,000 sum courtesy of the NHSrelated social enterprise Central Essex Community Services.

Whether it is supporting the disabled, extending opportunities to young people or helping the sick and elderly, family-run Daniel Robinson wants to acknowledge and reward the fantastic work being undertaken locally which too often goes unnoticed and unrewarded.

Managing director Gary Neill explained: "The Cash for the Community Awards are the final event planned by Daniel Robinson & Sons in celebration of our 120 years of service as a local family business.

"We appreciate the dedication that goes into organising and running local community groups and this is a chance for us to recognise the great and the good in the area for all their hard work. "Knowing how hard it is for our valuable community groups to continue their good work, we would like Star readers to nominate a local group to receive one of our Cash for the Community Awards."

Local charities, community groups, school projects, welfare organisations, youth clubs and sporting groups are eligible to win a share of the £15,000.

Those who would like to nominate

RIGHTS&ADVICE Information from Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice Service

How the shake-up of the welfare benefits system could affect you

THIS year there have been a great many changes to the welfare benefits system. We have already seen the introduction of what has become known as the 'bedroom tax' for social housing tenants, which will mean a reduction in the amount of Housing Benefit payable if the tenant has a spare bedroom.

There are some exemptions to this relating to disabled children, foster carers and members of the Armed Forces, for example. There is also the possibility of applying for a Discretionary Housing Payment to assist with the shortfall between rent payable and the award of benefit.

Council Tax Benefit has been transferred to local schemes, resulting in a reduction in the amount of benefit payable for many local residents.

Most pensioners are not affected by the 'bedroom tax' or reductions in council tax benefit.

In October we will see the introduction of Universal Credit, which will replace nearly all of the meanstested benefits such as Income Support, Tax Credits and Housing

Another change from

Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice Harlow Advice Centre 2 East Gate The High, Harlow

June is the replacement of Disability Living Allowance for working age claimants with the Personal Independence Payment. This will affect new claimants initially but will gradually be extended to existing claimants as well.

Personal Independence Payment differs greatly from Disability Living Allowance and is decided on a points-based system.

There are two components - mobility and dailŷ living - and each of these two components are payable at two different rates, standard and enhanced.

There is no equivalent to the low rate care currently payable. The walking distance generally accepted as meaning a person is entitled to the high rate of mobility will reduce significantly under

For some people it would be beneficial to make a claim for DLA before the change; for others it may be more sensible to wait until the introduction of

'Cycle town' is ideal home for new e-bike business

A CUTTING-edge German electronics firm is hoping to plug into the UK's e-bike market after opening a new showroom in Harlow.

Ansmann UK will use its new trade counter and retail unit at Harlow Business Park as a platform for the nationwide launch of its latest line of power-assisted bicycles.

The company - which has grown from cottage industry to household name back in its native Germany - chose Harlow because of its cycle path network and range of bike to work schemes.

Managing director Paul Channell told the Star: "Harlow is the perfect place for our business - it's a cycle town.

"It has a fantastic network of cycle tracks and a growing number of cycle to work schemes, while Harlow Council has shown its commitment to the environment through its green policies."

Ansmann's e-bikes are specifically designed for riders who find certain aspects of riding challenging due to advancing years or physical disability.

Using an innovative sensor-driven electronic motor, they can assist the rider up to a maximum speed of 25km/h, making light work of inclines and helping with longer journeys. "The e-bike market is booming across

"We're confident there is a huge demand for our products, especially from those people who have always enjoyed cycling but now find it a struggle tackling hills and long journeys."

The company's Harlow trade counter will open on Tuesday, with a dedicated retail unit following in the summer.

Tom's marathon effort for endurance runners

ARLOW was well represented in Sunday's Virgin London Marathon - but it wasn't too long ago when the town hosted its very own endurance race.

It was local resident Tom Bradey, of The Maples who first suggested the idea to the town's athletics club back in 1965 and he went on to organise the event for the next 19 years.

The 73-year-old, who is now retired, said: "Back then I was a member of Harlow Athletics Club and also sat on the committee.

"I suggested that Harlow would make a great place for a marathon because the way the town, which was fairly new then, had built around all the cycle

"Everyone was really enthused by the idea and they said I should organise it. It was quite an undertaking, but I did all the organising on my own, with a little help a week or so before the event and during the actual marathon."

One of Tom's key duties included making any required changes to the 26.2-mile course as the geography of the new town changed over the years.

He also wrote out ceritifcates for the runners and sourced and awarded prizes for the first 30 to cross the finish line.

"Planning and preparing for the marathon would last at least two or three months," said Tom. "It was hard work and after 18 races I was ready to leave. But the 19th race marked a century of the athletic assosication so I agreed that would be my last one.

"But then, for the 25th race a few years later, I was asked to take charge as the guy who had taken over from me was moving

The Harlow Marathon continued until the early 1990s

after spanning four decades.
Tom said: "The marathon was my baby, and I loved being a part of it. I used to write the programme by hand before getting it typed up, which I don't think any other marathon did then.

'It was hard work, but it was a labour of love and I really enjoyed it."

Cyclists on their bikes for vintage rally

SINCE the exploits of Team GB's cyclists at last summer's Olympic Games, the bicycle has onympic Games, the bicycle has enjoyed quite a revival. But Harlow has always been in love with all things two-wheeled, as this wonderful photo of Veteran Cycle Club members riding their vintage bikes through the town

The club - which was founded in 1955 and now has members from across the globe - chose the town as the location for its annual rally back in 1984.

The event saw members take to the cycle paths on their vintage penny-farthings and solid-tyred bicycles, finishing up at the ner cycle museum at Mark

Photographic show focuses on new talent

A STRIKING new exhibition of photographs by amateur snappers is now on display at town centre gallery Gatehouse Arts.

The Photographer's Eye features over 50 works from local photographers - some whom have never exhibited their work to the public.

A panel of five judges decided on the final pieces to be featured in the exhibition after receiving hundreds of entries.

Amanda Westbury, of Gatehouse Arts, said: "The quality of work is very high compared to last year. Even entrants who have entered before have really improved their work - the standard is brilliant.

'The great thing about the exhibition is that we have some people who have never entered any of their work into something like this before. We have novices, amateurs, and people who have been taking photos for a long time. It's a good mix.'

Visitors to the exhibition can vote for their favourite photo. with the overall winner being awarded the opportunity to stage a window display of their work in the gallery.

The exhibition runs until Sunday, May 11, and admission

CHRIS MOSS

WATCH out Harlow: self-proclaimed 'Lord of the Mince' Julian Clary is setting up camp in The Playhouse next week - and he's not leaving without a new husband in tow. In riotous new show Position Vacant: Apply Within, the 53-year-old comic takes audience participation to a whole new level as he scours the aisles in search of love.

"Because I'm still considered quite a catch and because your town is noted for its heterosexuals on the cusp, there's bound to be stiff competition," he told the Star.

"The show is like an open audition.

We get a lot of people up on stage – up to eight. No man is safe, even though they don't all have to be men

"There is a series of elimination rounds and I have a cattle pen with a white picket fence and a prod so I can herd them into it. The eventual winner has a gay marriage with me, conducted by a 'bishop'."

He added: "They really have to earn the right to marry me. The winner is hoiked backstage to spend time with me at the end of the show."

But those hoping for a genuine shot at living happily ever after with the Celebrity Big Brother winner will be disappointed - Julian already has a long-term partner who he one day hopes to marry for real.
"When I first dreamt up the idea for the show, my partner had gone to LA and I didn't think he was coming back," he explained. "Initially he went for six months, but he ended up staying for 18. So I thought, 'I'll show

"He's back now, of course, but the idea of looking for love remains." Given the recent headlines over gay marriage, the show is also very topical.

"That has given it an extra boost,"

Julian said. "We also finish with a song - Cool To Be Queer - which you can see now on YouTube. It's a serious song about gay marriage and persecution around the world.

"Is it political? Everything is political. I dared myself to do it and I'm very glad I did. It's nice getting a different reaction. People told me they find it very moving. It's given them something different to think about on the way home.

He added: "I'm very grateful that I'm allowed to do all these things.

Lord knows, I wouldn't have lasted five minutes if I'd had to grow up and do something sensible.

NOW there's a hint of sunshine in our lives we can actually contemplate the arrival of summer. And in cinematic terms that means the blockbusters are coming. One of the early ones out of the block is Iron Man 3 in which Robert Downey Jr returns as the billionaire-inventorsuperhero Tony Stark.

Directed and cowritten by Shane Black
- the man behind the Lethal Weapon movies and hailed as a pioneer of the action genre it's a real romp of a movie which will be welcome news to those who sat through the arduous prequel.

This time the makers have gone for a back-to-basics feel in which a way back to being a superhero when all his oney and toys are stripped away. Technically it's a sequel to two films, Iron Man 2 and last summer's The Avengers

in which Iron Man and a roll call of Marvel comic book heroes united to protect Manhattan from aliens.

Stark hasn't coped so well in the aftermath of these events and we find him a nervy insomniac prone to panic attacks. He does at least have his former assistant-turned-CEO Pepper Potts (Gwyneth Paltrow) on hand to soothe him as the pair have moved in together. It's not long, though, before their domestic bliss is thwarted by a two-pronged attack - the arrival of biologically advanced super-powered humans and the mysterious figurehead of a terror group known as The Mandarin.

The special effects are faultless and deserve to be seen in 3D while Iron Man's suit, which appears like a swarm of bees and attaches itself piece by piece to Stark, adds extra interest.

This movie supersedes many in that the thrills and spills are never to the detriment of the never to the detriment of the story and script, which feel sharp and fresh. Downey Jr gives an entertainingly jittery performance as a superhero on the edge, while his jaded one-liners raise a laugh.

While Guy Pearce as the founder of a brain-trust organisation, Don Cheadle as Stark's ally and Rebecca Hall as his former lover all put in charismatic performances, special mention has to go to Sir Ben Kingsley as The Mandarin and a turn of events that feels and a turn of events that feels truly inspired.

Fun for both fans and newbies to the comic book world, the movie may be a lengthy 129 minutes but it doesn't feel overlong. And that's a bonus as you won't want to leave your seat before you've seen the endof-credits surprise.

OLYMPUS HAS FALLEN Following a tragedy on his watch, grizzled Secret Service agent Mike Banning (Gerard Butler) is reassigned to a desk job at the Treasury Department. It's a far cry from his former detail quarding US President Benjamin Asher (Aaron Eckhart) and son Connor (Finley Jacobsen). A high-profile visit by the prime minister of South Korea descends into carnage when terrorists storm the White House. The militia kills almost the entire presidential security detail and takes Asher hostage in a nuclear-proof bunker with vice president Charlie Rodriguez (Phil Austin) and defence secretary Ruth McMillan (Melissa Leo). Without a second thought for his own safety, Mike races to the scene and infiltrates the shattered ruins of the building determined to protect the president and atone for past mistakes.

GARDENING

by Hannah Stephenson

GARDENERS who didn't want to venture out in the freezing weather at the beginning of the month may now be looking at a moss-ridden, lumpy lawn with scatterings of bald patches, a world away from the velvet carpet of grass they desire.

But there's still time to give your lawn a boost, even if it might look a bit forlorn now, or consider re-seeding or turfing if you think it's beyond

If you have loads of moss, it's worthwhile applying a moss killer before you scarify, and wait a few days before raking it up.

Improve badly draining soil by aerating the lawn, driving a garden fork into the ground all over the lawn when it is moist, making holes to a depth of 10-15cm (4-6in). I once bought a pair of lawn-aerating shoes, but they kept falling off so I went back to the old faithful fork.

Others use hollow-tine lawn aerators which remove plugs of soil from the ground, but they are hard work and aren't very good on stony soils or heavy, dry soils.

The holes you make allow air and water to get into the grass roots and should then be filled with a mixture of sharp sand and organic soil conditioner to stop the holes from closing up.

If the soil is heavy and air is forced out due to excessive rain, spread a large bucketful of sharp sand per square metre over the surface, working it into the holes with the back of a rake.

Feed the grass with lawn fertiliser available at most garden centres. This can be done by hand, applying approximately two grams per square metre, and water it in.

All lawns need good drainage and oxygenation, so scarify it with a springtine rake to remove thatch – dead grass that mats beneath growing grass – and moss. For larger lawns, it's worth renting a petrol-driven lawn scarifier to do the same job.

Some lawn dressings incorporate a slow-release fertiliser but if this isn't the case, add a little amount of general lawn fertiliser (not containing weed or moss killer) before applying it. Make sure you brush it evenly over the area or it will become patchy when the fertiliser kicks in.

A few weeks later, if your lawn is still patchy, oversow it lightly with a quality lawn seed.

Once it's ready to cut, make your first few cuts, keeping the blades set quite high. If your grass is already long, give it a few cuts over a number of weeks, lowering the blades a little at a time, so that you cut the grass length down

By summer, you should be mowing weekly, stepping up to twice a week when necessary, but don't mow the grass shorter than 2.5cm (1in) high and keep on top of weeds in the lawn Annual weeds which emerge in any bare patches will be removed by mowing.

Of course, in the unlikely event that we have a sustained period of warmth in the summer, go easy on the mowing and don't worry about letting the grass go brown because it will recover.

When you mow during drought, leave the cuttings on the lawn to stop the roots drying out and help keep in the moisture.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

MORE than one in five property owners who decided against taking out a home survey on their new property have regretted it, according to the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors. In a recent poll of 1,017 buyers across the country, the RICS discovered that nearly a third failed to commission a survey before their purchase and claimed they would not have gone ahead with completion if they had realised its true condition.

The average repair bill to rectify unseen problems was £5.750.

Of course, the RICS is going to advise purchasers to take out a survey – it's what their members do after all – but as a house is the most expensive purchase most people will ever make, surely it makes sense to call in the experts when it comes to peace of mind. Whether you plan to live in it, rent it out or sell it, a survey can highlight any potential problems.

The RICS offers three types of survey, starting with a basic condition report which tells you the condition of the property, offers guidance to legal advisors and highlights any urgent defects. Typically the lowest priced of the surveys, it is aimed at conventional properties and newer homes.

One up from this is the homebuyer report which includes all the features of the condition report as well as a market valuation and insurance rebuild costs. It also includes advice on defects that may affect the value of the property, with repairs and ongoing maintenance advice. Finally, the RICS building survey is for larger or older properties or if you're planning major works. This comprehensive report provides in-depth analysis of the property's condition and includes advice on defects, repairs and maintenance options.

Buying your first home is exciting so try to enjoy it

FIRST-time buyer mortgages have risen as the number of homes sold in the east of England reaches a three-year high, according to a housing survey published this month by the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors.

The report revealed that, on average, 18 homes had been sold per surveyor in the first quarter of the year. This is the highest uptake rate since November - so if you're thinking about buying your first home, you're not alone! Buying your first property is exciting so try to enjoy it! If you've done your research properly and your prospective new home ticks all the boxes when it comes to price, location and size, then your stress should be kept to a minimum. Anyone thinking about joining the UK property market for the first time should know everything that is involved before you start as it can be a complicated process. However, there is plenty of helpful information available and a wealth of experts who can guide you every step of the way - from your initial viewing through to picking up the keys.

From the outset it's important to stick to your budget. Work out your finances in detail and calculate the costs of buying a house. Always include the cost of the whole process including the asking price, solicitor fees, agency fees, property surveys and then add another 10 per cent to ensure you can cover any the station/shops or is it more important that you are away from it all near park or woodland?

If you do the same for your house requirements from the number of bedrooms to the price and then any additional extras such as the garden or garage, you can let your agent have a copy to help them prepare you a list of possible viewings.

Before you start viewing do some research on local house prices so you have an idea on what you should be paying for the size and location of your chosen property. Make friends with your estate agent; they will be instrumental in the process, handling any legal arrangements with your solicitors and providing regular communication channels with everyone involved.

When you have found a property to view, check that there are no significant electrical, structural or plumbing problems that may cost you money in the near future. Find out what furniture will be included in the sale and bargain either more furniture or less money to suit your

As well as getting a mortgage, there are a few other options to help first-time buyers with purchasing property. The Bank of England's Funding for Lending Scheme, launched last July in an attempt to boost lending to homebuyers and businesses, is finally beginning to deliver cheaper mortgages at higher loan-to-

Homeownership schemes are dedicated to those buying their first property by allowing them to buy a portion of the property and either take out a loan to fund the remaining money or rent back the remaining portion from a housing association.

Starter homes are another option whereby developers assist first-time buyers with everything from financial aid for the deposit to mortgages that allow you to rent now and buy later. Remember, if you have your mortgage in place and are ready to move you're in a strong position. First-time buyers have nothing to sell and so won't complicate a chain. Don't be afraid to use your position as a bargaining tool.

Competing in Todays Market

Buyers currently have a large selection of properties from which to choose. This can make buyers indecisive and prompts them to be selective and cautious before settling on the right property.

Largely Extended
 Five Bedroom Detached Home
 Substantial Sitting Room
 Dining Room & Snug

If you are selling, this puts a huge onus on you to ensure that your property absolutely shines in relation to other properties that are competing for your buyers attentions and, ideally, affections. This is not the time to listen to the fawning estate agent who tells you what you want to hear, particularly in relation to your asking price, in order to secure your valued instruction.

If your property is going to look good next to the others that are available, then pricing not only has to be correct it has to be attractive. Imagine a £10 note. It is definitely worth £10 - but could you sell it for £10?! Probably not, but at £9 you would have people fighting over it to the extent that the price would probably rise!

Likewise, if your property is slightly better than others on the market, don t offset this by quoting a slightly higher price! In other words, make your property the best in the market when compared to others at the same price, and the best-priced property when compared to others of the same size/location/condition. You may not have realised it before, but you find yourself in a fiercely competitive market where only the best value property will sell readily.

Finally, listen to your agent s advice. Only they have a good handle on buyers immediate requirements, how the buyer perceives value and, importantly, vital buyer information as to what else they have seen and how it compares with yours.

BY MATT JOY

OU get nowhere by standing still, especially in the car-making game. And Aston Martin, an icon of British style and performance, is going all out in its centenary year; the whole range has either been refreshed or is brand new. The latest model to get the treatment is the Rapide. First introduced in 2010, it has now turned into the Rapide S.

A bigger grille gives the Rapide S more presence and it gains a discreet rear spoiler to balance the bigger front splitter. There is a choice of a new 19in wheel design, too.

These are relatively minor visual tweaks for what was already a stunning piece of design. The stretched proportions of the Rapide may seem exaggerated at first but no other rival seamlessly blends an extra pair of doors into a coupe shape.

There are also mechanical enhancements, with the Rapide S gaining the new AM11 spec V12 engine already seen in the new Vanguish. Admittedly, it has slightly less power than in that installation, but at 550 bhp the output is anything but small - a full 80bhp more than the previous Rapide.

As before, drive is taken to the rear wheels through the six-speed Touchtronic transmission that offers automatic, sport and manual modes. The Rapide S also benefits from a revised suspension set-up, with new specification dampers tailored to its demanding requirements. But even with this 190mph four-door GT, you start slowly. Slide into the driver's seat and the cabin is a familiar blend of tasteful design and lush materials.

If it's not leather or chrome, then you don't need to touch it, and although there are few changes from the previous Rapide it is a layout that works well, particularly thanks to the improved satnav system.

you still have to perform the deliberate starting ritual, slotting the sapphire glass 'key' into the slot before the mighty V12 fires up. A punch of the D button on the dashboard and with a squeeze of the throttle, the automatic handbrake releases

In the first few hundred yards a number of things become immediately apparently. Firstly, the increase in power and torque has made the Rapide S exceptionally effortless to drive at normal speeds.

In standard mode, the long travel throttle allows careful applications of performance but you never need very much to gather speed comfortably. On the other hand, punch the Sport button and the throttle is sharper, giving you access to all that grunt even more easily.

The next thing is how impressively the revised suspension performs. Aston Martins have always managed that most difficult of tricks blending a ride comfortable enough for long distances but without sacrificing handling, but the Rapide S takes it even

Helped by being the longest car to come from the company, it is remarkably supple and fuss-free, vet never floats or feels anything other than well tied down over

Hit the damper button once and you switch into Sport, and even on lesser Spanish roads it still rode with deeply impressive composure.

There's even a Track mode if you hold down the damper button for a few seconds, and while that proved a little too stiff on smoother surfaces, it refuses to be upset by bumps.

And yet when you sharpen the Rapide S up for a challenging set of bends, it is more than up for it.

Regardless of the suspension mode, it is composed, diving between bends with remarkable ease and managing to shrink around you. From the driver's seat you would have no idea that there were two seats and a sizeable boot behind you.

The steering offers plenty of feel but isn't hyperactive at a cruise, and the brakes are strong even after repeated hard use. Best of all you can have two friends in the back to enjoy the ride. Those rear seats are sculpted buckets more than the kind of flat chair you get in a normal car. The big transmission tunnel through the centre of the car is turned to its advantage, providing an ideal location for the rear air conditioning controls and a natural divider of the space.

The Rapide S is undoubtedly competing in a rarefied sector, but that just means that the standards are exceptionally high.

Yet this latest Aston takes the already-impressive Rapide and moves it to another level. No competitor can offer quite the same blend of performance, composure, comfort and elegance.

Cool hand Luke wins final for Frontiers

LUKE Read was the hero as he scored twice to give his Frontiers Youth Pumas a 2-1 victory against close rivals Sumners Cobras in the West Essex & East Herts League ALS Cup Final.

Sunday's match at Barrows Farm saw Pumas come from behind to win in front of a large crowd.

Pumas started in a solid fashion. Keeper Alfie Oehme and a defensive trio of Louis Jennings, Alex Fairley and Jamie Davies the Pumas kept it tight at the back, allowing the midfield of Connor Kinggett, Archie Dingle, Aidan Linnecor and captain David Badmus to take the game to Sumners, with Read

It was scrappy at times but both teams were trying to calm nerves and began to start showing the passing game that

As the half wore on, Sumners began to get into the game more.
They held possession well and during this good period for them they scored.

Alfie Goldthorpe was allowed to battle through a number of challenges before unleashing an unstoppable shot into the roof of the Pumas net.

The Pumas, pictured right, lifted themselves and a break away saw Charlie Bliss set up Read to equalise.

It was 1-1 at half-time.
After the break, Goldthorpe was at his best as he run at Sumners and began to create problems. Other players did well and Aidan Linnecor was a constant threat going forward for Frontiers while Jennings did well in defence against his old club.

However, there was no more goals until the Pumas were awarded penalty for hand ball in the box. Read kept his nerve well as he stepped up to take and convert the spot-kick to put Frontiers 2-1 ahead.

Cobras never know when they are

They threw everyone forward and it took a great save from Oehme in the goal to stop the Cobras from equalising.

The resulting corner saw Sumners bring up their goalkeeper Freddie Coutts.

However, they could not find an equaliser as the final whistle went and Frontiers Pumas celebrated winning the West Essex & East Herts Youth League Cup for the first time.

After a strong fight Shipwright took control on the ground to win the bout with all three judges giving him the win.

His coach Dave Rintoul said: "Luke was over the moon as taking gold in the nationals has always been his dream.

Barclays counting on Alex after masterclass from Boris Becker

HARLOW'S Alex Dodd was given a tennis masterclass from threetime Wimbledon champion Boris Becker as his bid to become a Barclays Ball Kid entered its final

The 14-year-old Stewards Academy pupil was one of 100 youngsters to be given expert tuition from Becker at the Barclays Ball Kids National Trials at the Riverside Health and Racquets Club, Northwood in London.

Up for grabs is the prize of star-ring alongside world No.1 Novak Djokovic, Andy Murray and Roger Federer at the O2 as one of 30 Ball Kids for the Barclays ATP World Tour Finals in November.

Dodd demonstrated his talent in front of Becker and Murray's former coach Mark Petchey and admitted it would be a dream come true to rub shoulders with the likes of Djokovic and Murray at the O2.

"I found it really enjoyable because I love working hard and it pushed me to my limits," said Dodd, who attends Harlow Lawn Tennis Club in Southern Way.

"It was a lot of fun but the fun comes from the effort that you put in. I always have admiration for the Ball Kids

"They look smart and always seem so confident and they are role models for children that wish to progress and see tennis at a high standard.

"It would mean a lot to get through because it would firstly show that I have succeeded in pushing myself to my limits as well as being confident. "But I will also get to be up close to players I have watched for so long and that would be great."

And Becker, who along with Petchey will select the winners, believes the lucky 30 are in for a treat they will never forget when they reach the O2.

"It's a great opportunity for these kids to get involved with the best tennis players in the world," he said. "It's quite an world, he said. It's quite an achievement to get picked out of thousands of kids throughout the whole country.

"To be selected as the top 30

they really have to be good and I hear from the head coach that this year the standard was even better than ever."

victory over Glasgow.

Defending a massive 37-point advantage from the first leg, the Rockets effectively had Sunday's away tie – which they eventually lost 52-38 – sewn up by holding their hosts to a 17-13 margin at Heat 5, and had it mathematically clinched as early as Heat 8, winning 101-78 on aggreggate.

Jason Garrity continued his brilliant form with a 10-point tally that included a thrilling victory in Heat 8 after finding a gap that few others could to surge around Joey Ringwood on the third lap.

Australian Tyson Nelson followed Garrity to 10 points, while stand-in skipper Olly Allen would surely have bettered that record by a point but for a fall while leading Heat 11.

James Sarjeant – guesting for the injured Simon Lambert – added an important early victory in Heat 2 and was close to passing Ringwood in Heat 8, only to fall

He tweeted: "Worst track done and it was wet. Not happy with my performance, at least we won on aggregate.

Rockets team manager John Sampford said: "We knew the task in hand and the lads set about it. We wanted to get as many points on the board as early as possible in order take the sting out of Glasgow's attack as quickly as we could, and we did just

The Rockets' success brings up a second round pairing with Sheffield, away on June 13, and at home two days later.

 ROCKETS crushed Glasgow 63-26 in the first leg at Hoddesdon on Saturday night, rattling up an impressive eight maximums.

Garrity led the way for the Rockets with five wins in his six races. He said: "A result like this is good for our confidence. Everything's going good for me at the moment."

Glasgow were never at the races, with reserve Ben Morley, deputising for the injured Simon Lambert, collecting a seven-point haul from five rides.

• RYE House are back in League Cup action this Saturday as they host Plymouth (7pm). Rockets will leapfrog leaders Somerset if they win all three match points and Ipswich Witches slip up against the same opposition.

Lindsey struck the first blow on 26 minutes. Joe Crook conceded a freekick which Street's Darren Bern floated a pass into the EKB keeper Dave Wilkinson was unable to claim it and Joe Hall knocked in the ball from a few yards.

Four minutes later, a Wilkinson clearance went to the other end and Lindsev Street keeper John Chappell tipped it over the bar.

ROUGE LYON 2, MARQUIS SPORTS 1 HARLOW & DISTRICT LEAGUE PREMIER DIVISION CUP FINAL

A FANTASTIC 85th-minute winner from Scott Poole gave Rouge Lyon victory over Marquis Sports in the Harlow & District League Premier Division Cup final.
It was 1-1 when Poole fired home a screamer which gave Rouge some revenge as they had lost last year's final to Marquis.

Although Rouge were successful none of their three main attacking players Ricky Cook, Gavin Cockman and Chris Bullock scored in the final at Harlow Town Football Club.

Cockman (Sawbridgeworth Town and Takeley) and Bullock (Takeley) have played in the Essex Senior League.

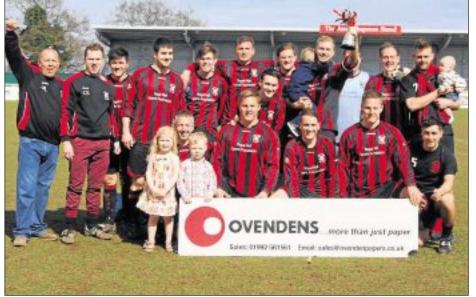

The trio have netted more than 70 goals this season but were thwarted by some excellent defensive work from Marquis's Richard Goodchild and Chris Grove who have respectively played for Sawbridgeworth Town and Takeley in the Essex Senior League. Marquis looked more dangerous in the first half. Greg Williams struck the Rouge cross bar in the opening five min-utes and Nathan Blake also went close shortly after.

Marquis went ahead in the 19th minute when an excellent cross from Alfie Branch found Greg Williams to tap home.

Efforts from James Thomas and Blake almost increased Marquis's lead. Marquis led 1-0 at half-time.
On the hour mark, Marquis almost doubled the lead.

Thomas beat his man and his pass put Williams through but the latter's shot came back off a post, It was a pivotal moment.

Rouge cleared the ball and went up to the other end before they forced a corner.

Dean McAteer's flag kick resulted in Sam Zanone heading home powerfully to make it 1-1.

Both teams pushed hard for the Rouge keeper Dalby denied

Then Andros Demosthenous in the Marquis goal saved a Cockman effort from a few yards.

The possibility of extra-time loomed as the minutes ticked away before Poole struck.

He picked the ball up 35 yards out from goal and struck a perfect half-volley into the top left corner of the goal.

The goal would not have been out of place at any level of football. It also sent Rouge's followers into wild celebrations. Marquis made a valiant effort in the closing minutes but were just unable to conjure an equaliser.

Now Rouge have secured their first piece of silverware this season. they still have their eyes on son, they still have their eyes on three more trophies.

They are still in contention to win the League Cup, Senior Champions League and premier division title.

This would make it a clean sweep for Rouge.

England stars at pavilion launch

TWO England World Cup winning female cricketers inspired more than 50 children when Harlow Town Cricket Club celebrated the opening of its new £290,000

Lydia Greenway (27) and Beth Morgan (31) were in the 2009 England team that beat New Zealand to win the World Cup.

The pair gave around 50 students from Stewards and Burnt Mill School plenty of variety on Friday. They visibly enjoyed the chance to bat, bowl and Greenway and Morgan are employed by the Chance to Shine scheme, which is designed to give youngsters in state schools the opportunity to play cricket.

Morgan said: "It gives them the opportunity to have a go at cricket and it was great to hear one girl saying when can I have a hat?

'There was some real enthusiasm and some good skill there. Hopefully they will come back to the club for the training nights." She added: "We taught them basic skills and also had games as well."

Greenway added: "It was good to see them involved and 20/20 is an important form of the game to get youngsters interested."

The training session also coincided with the opening of the new clubhous f the new clubhouse. This was attended by the

There are also external access improvements, which include pedestrian steps down from the pavilion and cricket pitches from Elizabeth Way and an access road with a drop off point for people with mobility issues.

These improvements will enable the Shepherd Neame Essex League club to host cricket for both sexes. Club chairman Stuart

Sixth appeals as Rams end on high

A TOP-half finish is likely to be claimed by Harlow after they rounded off their campaign with a good home win over lowly Canvey Island. The Rams lie sixth in the 12-team table and this will remain the case unless eighth-placed Beccles beat fifth placed Wanstead by a hefty margin this Saturday.

Sixth or seventh from that start would be a good finish.

Rams captain Shaun Roberts told the Star: "Considering we were rock bottom at the start after we lost the first five games we have dug ourselves out of it well.

"At the start of the season and beforehand we were disrupted by a couple of players getting married and some injuries."
He added: "However, some of the early losses were by narrow margins and had they gone the other way we could have finished higher up the Harlow exerted strong pressure in the next 15 minutes but were thwarted by a determined Canvey defence before Dobson kicked a drop goal.

From the restart, Paul Eynon broke 20metres before he threw a long pass infield to start a good handling move which saw Fricker outpace the defence for his second try.

Dobson kicked the conversion and the home lead was 18-7.

Harlow tightened their grip with a third try on 38 minutes.

The home backs broke clear and

Will Grimley ran in a try which Dobson converted.

Canvey kicked a penalty to reduce Harlow's lead to 25-10.

Canvey started the second half well but there was some good play from Dobson, debutant scrum-half Andre Riddell and Paul Eynon in absorbing the pressure.

Canvey were quick to exploit the possession and broke away.

With a two-to-one overlap they outpaced the Harlow backs and cut in for a try near the posts.

The conversion was kicked, cutting the home lead to 28-22.

Harlow responded with two unconverted tries to clinch the win.

After the hosts won a visitors' scrum on their 22, a three-man move ended with Dobson diving over for the touchdown and the bonus point try.

Then, slick handling by forwards and backs set up centre Wayne Heapy

Roberts added: "It was a good win against a spirited Canvey side.

This came when they beat Tilbury 1-0 at home on Saturday February 16. Chapman said: "I have told them they are playing for their place next season at the football club.

"This is when you see what people are about."

He added: "It is about winning football matches.

"In the last month or so there has been a lack of pride."

Thamesmead are third in the table but still could come second which may give them a more favourable promotion play-off semi-final tie. Chapman said: "Hopefully it will be a really good game of football.

"I have told my players I do not want them just to lie down and let the season finish."

Harlow's task will be hard. Central defender Christian Wheeler has served his three-match ban after the red card he received in the 2-0 home defeat against Ware on Easter Bank Holiday

However, experienced defender Lee Gledhill is ruled out. This was after he suffered a

Tennant, a member of the running club for 20 years and the holder of nine club records, was joined by 12 other Harlow col-league for the 26.2-mile trek

The Harlow Running Club contingent raised a total of £20,000 for charity and set new club records.

They joined 34,000 others runners on what was a great day for spectating but, because of the constant sunshine, made it very warm for running a marathon.

First Harlow runner to finish was Steve Murtagh in 97th place in a fantastic 2:36.48, achieving a personal best (PB) time for the distance and setting a new HRC

First Harlow woman was Louise Brass (3751st) in a superb 3:23.55, just one minute outside her PB.

The hosts' lead was halved when Scott Williams headed home a Joe O'Donoghue corner from the right at the back post on 61 minutes.

It was Williams' first goal for Harlow and he should have scored a second goal on 84 minutes when he fired straight at the Chatham keeper in a one-on-one. Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "I thought we deserved at least a draw but we made bad errors for their goals.
